Abstracts

Magnetoresistive random access memory (MRAM) is a method of storing data bits using magnetic states instead of the electrical charges used by devices such as dynamic random access memory (DRAM). By combining the high speed of static random access memory (SRAM) and the high density of DRAM, MRAM promises to significantly improve electronic products by storing greater amounts of data, enabling faster data access and consuming less energy than existing electronic memory. The global mram market is anticipated to increase by USD 1,350 million till 2028 at an average annual growth of 28.1 percent as per the latest report by Gen Consulting Company.

This industry report offers market estimates of the global market, followed by a detailed analysis of the product, application, and region. The global market data on mram can be segmented by product: toggle MRAM, STT-MRAM. Globally, the STT-MRAM segment made up the largest share of the mram market. Mram market is further segmented by application: aerospace & defense, automotive, consumer electronics, enterprise storage, robotics, others. Based on region, the mram market is segmented into: North America, Asia Pacific, Europe, Rest of the World (ROW).
