Abstracts

Multi-tasking machine tools are advanced manufacturing machines that can perform multiple operations on a single workpiece without the need for manual intervention. These machines combine several machining processes, such as milling, drilling, turning, grinding, and laser cutting, into a single machine, allowing for increased efficiency and productivity in manufacturing processes. Multi-tasking machine tools are designed to perform complex machining operations in a single setup, reducing the need for multiple machines and setups. This results in reduced cycle times, increased accuracy, and improved production quality. The analysis predicts the global multi-tasking machine tools market will grow from USD 1,090.0 million in 2022 to USD 1,305.0 million by 2029, achieving a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 2.44 percent.
