Abstracts

Plastic waste management refers to the collection, recycling, and disposal of plastic waste. Plastic waste has become a major environmental problem due to its non-biodegradability and high production rates. Poor plastic waste management can result in pollution of land, water, and marine environments, and can have significant impacts on human health and wildlife. According to the latest estimates, the global plastic waste management market is set to achieve an incremental growth of USD 8.9 billion, accelerating at a CAGR of almost 3.76% during the forecast period 2023-2029.

The report covers market size and growth, segmentation, regional breakdowns, competitive landscape, trends and strategies for global plastic waste management market. It presents a quantitative analysis of the market to enable stakeholders to capitalize on the prevailing market opportunities. The report also identifies top segments for opportunities and strategies based on market trends and leading competitors' approaches.

This industry report offers market estimates and forecasts of the global market, followed by a detailed analysis of the service, source, polymer type, and region. The global market for plastic waste management can be segmented by service: collection, recycling, incineration, landfills. Among these, the landfills segment was accounted for the highest revenue generator in 2022. Plastic waste management market is further segmented by source: residential, commercial, industrial, others. The residential segment is estimated to account for the largest share of the global plastic waste management market.
