Abstracts

According to the latest data, the market size of the global portable ultrasound sector is expected to rise by USD 0.7 billion with a CAGR of 6.71% by the end of 2029. Portable ultrasound machines are designed to be lightweight and compact, making them easy to transport and use in a variety of settings, including hospitals, clinics, emergency rooms, and remote locations. Portable ultrasound machines are used to diagnose a wide range of medical conditions, including pregnancy, abdominal pain, and cardiovascular disease. They are also used in emergency medicine to quickly assess and diagnose trauma patients. Portable ultrasound machines use a handheld transducer that is placed directly on the skin or inserted into the body to capture images. The images are displayed in real-time on a monitor and can be saved for later analysis.
