Abstracts

Acrylonitrile (ACN) is an organic compound which is a colorless volatile liquid and is produced by ammonia catalysis of propylene. It has application in the production of homopolymers such as polyacrylonitrile and numerous copolymers such as styrene acrylonitrile (SAN), acrylonitrile styrene acrylate (ASA), acrylonitrile butadiene styrene (ABS) and synthetic rubbers. ABS is a thermoplastic, which is derived from acrylonitrile and exhibits the property of providing substantial weight reduction for automobiles.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Acrylonitrile (ACN) in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. North America is likely to be a promising industry over the forecast period in light of presence of robust pharmaceutical manufacturing industries. Expansion of shale gas deposits and tight oil fields by the U.S. and Canada is likely to provide easy availability of petrochemical feedstock. The ease in availability of petrochemical feedstock as a raw material for the manufacturing of ACN is expected to fuel the industry growth in near future.

The worldwide market for Acrylonitrile (ACN) is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
