Surrounding temperature and climatic conditions associated with aerospace industry have generated the need for maintenance activities which in turn created the demand for aerospace maintenance chemicals. The aerospace maintenance chemicals include aircraft cleaning chemical, aircraft surface conditioning chemicals and de-icing chemicals of aircraft. The aircraft cleaners are used for all commercial aircrafts to keep it corrosion free as well as provides hygiene and safe from inside as well as outside areas of the aircraft. ADF (Aircraft De-icing Fluid) or AAF (Aircraft Anti-icing Fluid) generally known as aircraft de-icing chemicals are used to remove the ice and snow from the surface. It remains on the surface of the aircraft and slows down the formation of ice for a certain interval of time, this is done because the ice creates the rough surface which causes disruption in smooth airflow resulting degradation of the ability to generate lift of aircraft, in turn, increase the drag time.
