Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Agricultural Index Insurance market size was valued at US$ 2058 million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ 2876 million by 2032 with a CAGR of 4.9% during review period.

Agricultural Index Insurance is an innovative agricultural insurance product that provides compensation based on predefined objective index parameters rather than directly assessing the actual losses experienced by individual farmers. The insurance payout is triggered when specific indicators related to agricultural risks reach predetermined thresholds, such as rainfall levels, temperature variations, drought indexes, flood indexes, satellite-based vegetation indicators, crop yield indexes, or regional production data. Unlike traditional agricultural insurance, which requires on-site damage assessment and individual loss verification, Agricultural Index Insurance offers faster claims settlement, lower administrative costs, greater transparency, and improved scalability, making it particularly suitable for smallholder farmers, developing agricultural markets, and regions exposed to climate-related risks. With the increasing impact of climate change and the rapid development of satellite remote sensing, weather data analytics, artificial intelligence, and digital agriculture technologies, Agricultural Index Insurance is becoming an important component of modern agricultural risk management systems and is increasingly integrated with Weather Insurance, Parametric Insurance, and Agricultural Income Protection Insurance solutions.
