Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Alternative Investment Valuation market size was valued at US$ million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ million by 2032 with a CAGR of %during review period.

Alternative Investment Valuation refers to the process of determining the value of non-traditional assets or investments, which differ from conventional asset classes like stocks, bonds, and cash. These alternative investments typically include assets such as private equity, hedge funds, real estate, commodities, infrastructure, venture capital, and collectibles (e.g., art, antiques). Valuing these assets is often more complex than valuing traditional investments due to their illiquid nature, lack of transparency, and limited pricing data.
