Abstracts

The global Anti-Intrusion Alarm System market size is expected to reach $ 29918 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 9.3% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

An Anti-Intrusion Alarm System consists of perimeter sensors, indoor detectors, control panels, wireless communication modules and cloud-supported monitoring platforms designed to detect unauthorized access in residential, commercial and industrial environments. It includes infrared beams, microwave barriers, vibration/fence sensors, magnetic contacts, PIR motion detectors, glass-break sensors and alarm sirens. In 2025, the global blended average value is approximately US$185 per unit, with worldwide shipments of 84 million units. Gross margins range between 28%?52%, supported by AI-enabled analysis, central monitoring services and integrated security platforms. Upstream includes PIR modules, RF chips, lenses, enclosures and batteries; midstream manufacturers build sensors, control hubs and alarm systems; downstream users include homes, offices, factories, warehouses, data centers, retail stores and critical infrastructure.

Demand for anti-intrusion alarm systems is accelerating due to rising urban security concerns, the adoption of smart-home ecosystems and the expansion of industrial perimeter protection. AI-enabled event classification is reducing false alarms, making advanced systems more attractive to both residential and commercial users. Integration with video management and cloud monitoring platforms will remain the dominant trend through 2031.
