The global Automatic Flexo Plate Mounting Machine market size is expected to reach $ million by 2029, rising at a market growth of % CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

An Automatic Flexo Plate Mounting Machine is a type of equipment used in the printing industry to mount flexographic plates onto printing cylinders or sleeves. This machine automates the process of plate mounting, making it faster and more accurate than manual methods. The machine uses a computer-controlled system to position and mount the flexographic plates onto the printing cylinder or sleeve. It uses high-resolution cameras to analyze the plate and cylinder/sleeve, and then uses software to adjust the plate position to ensure accurate registration between the plate and substrate during the printing process. Automatic Flexo Plate Mounting Machines can handle a wide range of plate widths and lengths, and can mount plates onto various types of printing cylinders and sleeves. They are commonly used in the packaging industry for printing labels, cartons, and flexible packaging materials.
