Abstracts

As one of the most common and widely used personal washing products, soap has its own advantages and disadvantages. The main ingredient of some soaps is sodium fatty acid, which is essentially saponified from oils (vegetable or animal oils). In fact, fatty acids and their derivatives are the most widely used raw materials in cosmetics. However, due to the fact that fatty acid sodium is alkaline (high pH) and the skin surface is weakly acidic (has affinity with plant alkalis, such as the alkali contained in mugwort plants, the PH value is low), therefore, the use of high acid and alkali strength After the soap is washed, the pH of the skin surface rises a lot, which causes certain irritation to the highly allergic skin and causes all kinds of discomfort. At the same time, the strong acid and alkali will also wash off the lipid layer on the skin surface and make the skin dry.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Baby Bath Soap in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. The increasing demand for natural and organic baby products is one of the key factors driving the growth of this market over the forecast period. A baby's skin is much more sensitive than an adult's skin so synthetic ingredients like parabens, found in most baby bath soaps, can prove to be harmful to their skin. Therefore, parents increasingly prefer natural and organic products to keep their babies' skin from harm. Moreover, in developing countries like India and China, the rise in disposable income and subsequent increase in consumer spending are fuelling the demand for organic products, as these products are more expensive than baths soaps with synthetic ingredients.

The global baby soap market was led by APAC and accounted for more than 50% of the market share during 2018. Factors such as rising urbanization, growing awareness about health and hygiene, an increase in disposable income, and stable fertility rates are expected to drive this market's growth in APAC over the forecast period.

The worldwide market for Baby Bath Soap is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
