Baking fat and margarine are both used as substitutes for butter in baking. Baking fat is usually made from hydrogenated vegetable oil and is solid at room temperature. It has a high melting point, making it suitable for baking applications where high temperatures are required. Margarine, on the other hand, is made from a combination of vegetable oils and water, and can be either solid or spreadable. It has a lower melting point than baking fat, making it more suitable for lower temperature baking applications like cakes and cookies.
