Baryte or barite is a mineral consisting of barium sulfate. The baryte group consists of baryte, celestine, anglesite and anhydrite. Baryte is generally white or colorless, and is the main source of barium. Baryte and celestine form a solid solution (Ba,Sr)SO₄.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Barytes in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. The increasing demand for Baryte drives the growth of market especially for oil and gas industry. The increase in deep water drilling activities is one of the primary drivers for market growth. Brazil, Gulf of Mexico, and West Africa are likely to witness largest growth in the deepwater market backed by the rising deepwater hydrocarbon discoveries and the decreasing production from onshore and shallow water basins in these countries. These factors accelerate the demand for barytes in the oil and gas industry. North America to retain its position throughout the forecast period and attributed the constant increase in oil and gas drilling activities for this. The U.S. is projected to lead the North America barite market over the forthcoming years. Asia Pacific is also anticipated to surface as a promising market for barite in the years to come.

The worldwide market for Barytes is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly 3.9% over the next five years, will reach 1770 million US$ in 2023, from 1410 million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
