Abstracts

Bipolar disorder, also known as manic depression, is a mental disorder that could lead to periods of depression and elevated mood. The treatment of bipolar disorder includes psychotherapy as well as medications such as mood stabilizers and antipsychotics.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Bipolar Disorder Therapeutics in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. Rise in prevalence of bipolar disorder, high unmet medical needs, technological advancement and government initiatives are the key factors accelerating the growth of the bipolar disorder therapeutics market. Increase in investment in research and development and collaboration activities between companies for product development are the other factors likely to propel the bipolar disorder therapeutics market. Additionally, the rise in awareness about the disorder has led to increased understanding among the public. This has led to a rise in the number of individuals seeking medical attention for the treatment of the disorder. Also, strategic alliances formed between vendors help in increased penetration of the drugs in the market and increase market share. However, stringent regulations act as a major restraint of the bipolar disorder therapeutics market. North America dominates the global bipolar disorder therapeutics market due to new product innovation, increased awareness among people about bipolar disease, and rise in prevalence of bipolar disorders. The worldwide market for Bipolar Disorder Therapeutics is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
