Brassica Alcohol refers to a plant-derived fatty alcohol mixture typically obtained from hydrogenating Brassica (rapeseed/canola) oils, with an industry chain that starts from oilseed cultivation and crushing to produce fatty acids/esters, followed by hydrogenation/fractionation into fatty alcohols, which are then formulated into downstream applications such as personal care and cosmetics (emollients, thickeners, conditioners), household/home-care surfactants and detergents, industrial lubricants, and specialty chemical intermediates.

In 2025, global Brassica Alcohol production reached approximately 3262 MT, with an average global market price of around US$ 12.8 per kg. The global single-line production capacity ranges from 300 to 500 MT per year. The industry's gross profit margin is approximately 20%-25%.
