Abstracts

The global Buffalo Dairy Products market size is expected to reach $ 5591 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 5.7% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

Buffalo dairy products are dairy items primarily made from buffalo milk, including liquid milk, milk powder, butter, cheese, yogurt, ice cream, and other forms. In 2025, the global production of buffalo dairy products was approximately 340 million kilograms, with an average price of about 6–13 USD per kilogram. Buffalo milk is widely used in the food processing industry due to its high fat content, rich protein composition, and creamy taste. The upstream raw materials mainly include buffalo breeding, feed supply, and initial milk collection, covering breed improvement, farm management, feed formulation, and collection and cold-chain transportation of raw milk. The downstream industry chain involves dairy product processing, packaging, cold-chain logistics, distribution, and retail, ultimately reaching supermarkets, catering, and export markets. The buffalo dairy products industry integrates agriculture with food processing and is closely linked to quality control, food safety testing, nutritional research, and marketing. With increasing consumer demand for high-quality dairy products, buffalo dairy products occupy an important position in the health food and specialty dairy markets.

This report studies the global Buffalo Dairy Products production, demand, key manufacturers, and key regions.
