Abstracts

The global Bus Insurance market size is expected to reach $ 19843 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 5.1% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

Public bus insurance refers to a commercial insurance system that provides risk protection for buses, long-distance passenger buses, school buses, tour buses, and urban public transportation vehicles. It primarily covers risks such as vehicle damage, third-party liability, passenger liability, driver liability, property damage, business interruption, and natural disasters. Its core function is to help public transportation operators, public transport agencies, and passenger transport companies reduce financial losses in the event of traffic accidents, vehicle damage, personal injury, or operational interruption, and to meet the compliance requirements of transportation regulatory authorities in various countries for mandatory insurance for commercial passenger vehicles. Modern public bus insurance has expanded from traditional vehicle insurance to a comprehensive insurance service system that includes fleet management, remote driving behavior monitoring, autonomous driving risk management, and special coverage for new energy public buses.

From an industry perspective, the public bus insurance market is upgrading from traditional 'commercial vehicle insurance' to 'intelligent fleet risk management platforms.' With the advancement of global urbanization, the expansion of public transport systems, the popularization of new energy buses, and the increase in autonomous driving bus testing, insurance companies are significantly increasing their focus on high-frequency operation and high-liability exposure scenarios for buses. Especially in emerging markets such as China, India, Southeast Asia, and the Middle East, the number of public buses and intercity passenger vehicles continues to grow, driving the expansion of demand for commercial passenger insurance. Meanwhile, AI-powered driving behavior analysis, UBI (Usage-Based Insurance), IoT (Internet of Vehicles), and real-time fleet monitoring technologies are changing pricing models, shifting insurance from traditional accident compensation to a 'proactive risk prevention + dynamic premium' model. In the future, new energy buses, autonomous buses, and smart city transportation systems will become important growth areas for public bus insurance.

This report studies the global Bus Insurance demand, key companies, and key regions.
