Abstracts

The global Butchery and Meat Processing market size is expected to reach $ 424490 million by 2029, rising at a market growth of 6.8% CAGR during the forecast period (2023-2029).

In the global market, the key players in the Butchery and Meat Processing industry are Cargill, CLEMENS FOOD GROUP, COFCO, ect. The top three players in the industry account for about 50% of the market share. North America, Europe, and Asia-Pacific are the major production regions for this product, with North America accounting for about 40% of the global market share. The product can be classified as fresh meat, processed meat products, and other products depending on the processing method. The product is widely used in farmers' markets, supermarkets, food processing companies, and other applications.

The meat-processing industry consists of establishments primarily engaged in the slaughtering of different animal species, such as cattle, hogs, sheep, lambs, or calves, for obtaining meat to be sold or to be used on the same premises for different purposes. Processing meat involves slaughtering animals, cutting the meat, inspecting it to ensure that it is safe for consumption, packaging it, processing it into other products such as sausage or lunch meats, delivering it to stores, and selling it to customers. The meat-processing industry is a separate entity from the meat-packing industry: Processing involves taking the meat in its raw form and turning it into another product that is marketable, safe for consumption, and attractive to consumers.
