The Campus Recruitment Process Outsourcing (RPO) industry is trending toward digitalization, customization, and integration, with AI-powered resume screening, online assessment tools, and virtual campus recruitment fairs replacing traditional offline models, and vertical industry customized solutions (e.g., for technology, manufacturing, finance) becoming the core competitiveness; opportunities lie in the growing demand for efficient recruitment from enterprises amid talent competition, policy support for college graduate employment promotion, and the expansion of service scenarios driven by cross-regional and international campus recruitment needs; meanwhile, the industry faces challenges including the difficulty of balancing recruitment scale and talent quality, the high turnover rate of fresh graduate talents leading to service effect disputes, the need to comply with data privacy regulations for student information management, and the homogenization competition in low-end service segments.
