Abstracts

The global Caregiver App market size is expected to reach $ 4145 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 8.7% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

Caregiver apps are mobile or mobile-first software applications developed for family caregivers, relative caregivers, professional caregivers, home care facilities, senior care facilities, health plans, employer benefit clients, and long-term care service organizations. They are primarily used for care task organization, schedule and appointment management, medication reminders and eMAR recording, care logs, care plans, visit verification, scheduling, caregiver check-in, exception reporting, family communication, caregiving network collaboration, resource navigation, caregiver training, emotional support, service quality tracking, and compliance document management.

From a demand structure perspective, the pressure of family care and the digitalization of professional care delivery are the two most important growth drivers. Demand from families stems from aging populations, dementia, chronic diseases, and post-operative rehabilitation scenarios. Adult children, spouses, and relatives need a tool to manage medication, appointments, care tasks, costs, records, family communication, and emergency information. With the increasing number of family caregivers and a shortage of caregivers, apps that reduce communication costs, minimize errors, improve the caregiver experience, and enhance family trust will be more likely to be purchased by institutions and payers.
