According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Cartridge Water Purifier market size was valued at US$ million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ million by 2032 with a CAGR of %during review period.

A cartridge water purifier is a device that can easily purify water by simply connecting it to a water tap.

The installation of a DI water purifier does not require complicated construction, so the hurdle for installation is very low. Activated carbon pretreatment filters and ion exchange resins are used to purify pure water by removing impurities such as iron, manganese, and calcium contained in the water supply.

These filters and resins need to be replaced periodically, but because they are cartridge-type, they can be replaced with a simple operation. Because they are thus very easy to handle, they are used in research facilities and general households.
