Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Cash Transport Service market size was valued at US$ 534 million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ 710 million by 2032 with a CAGR of 4.2% during review period.

Cash Transport Service refers to the industry where professional security companies use armed escort vehicles and gunmen to securely transport high-value items such as cash, precious metals, and securities, and provide value-added services such as sorting, storage, and ATM management. The core process includes: after a client initiates a transport request, escort personnel follow a pre-planned confidential route, transporting cash, stored in explosion-proof or bulletproof safes, from the origin to the destination. Upon arrival, the escort personnel verify the seals, count the quantity, and complete the handover with the recipient. In addition to basic transport, most service providers also offer cash management services such as counterfeit cash sorting, damaged currency recovery, ATM cash box replacement, and cash inventory forecasting. This industry is a crucial link in ensuring the security of social cash circulation, primarily serving banks, large retailers, and independent ATM operators.

The global cash transport service market exhibits a pattern of maturity in North America, consolidation in Europe, significant differences in the Asia-Pacific region, and rapid growth in the Middle East and Africa. The North American market is highly concentrated, with leading companies reducing operating costs through smart safes and dynamic route systems. However, the widespread adoption of digital payments has led to a year-on-year decline in cash usage, squeezing traditional cash transport businesses. The European market is influenced by varying cash preferences across countries. Some Nordic countries are leading in cashless transactions, while regions like the Deutsche Bundesbank still rely on cash, prompting companies to accelerate their transformation towards cash management, sorting, and vault outsourcing services. In the Asia-Pacific region, China and Japan maintain significant cash circulation. Companies like China's Zhongjinying and Anbang Security have achieved stable growth by leveraging the essential needs of bank branches, but face pressure from rising labor and security costs. Future trends include: smart safes and IoT technology enabling real-time risk monitoring of vaults and vehicles, and dynamic prediction algorithms reducing transport frequency. Key obstacles include: the erosion of cash demand by digital currencies and mobile payments, strict regulations on the armed cash transport industry limiting new license issuance, and the difficulty for armored trucks to meet high-load, 24/7 operations in the era of electric vehicles. In terms of dynamics, leading companies are expanding their logistics for valuables (jewelry, art, high-value goods) and data media to diversify risks, while also acquiring regional small cash transport companies to integrate their networks.
