Abstracts

The global Catamaran market size is expected to reach $ 2121 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 3.8% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

A catamaran is a multi-hulled watercraft featuring two parallel hulls of equal size. It is a geometry-stabilized craft, deriving its stability from its wide beam, rather than from a ballasted keel as with a monohull sailboat. Being ballast-free and therefore lighter than a monohull, catamarans often have a shallower draft (draught) than comparably-sized monohulls. The two hulls combined also often have a smaller hydrodynamic resistance than comparable monohulls, requiring less propulsive power from either sails or motors. The catamaran's wider stance on the water can reduce both heeling and wave-induced motion, as compared with a monohull.

Catamarans range in size from small—sailing or rowing vessels—to large—naval ships and car ferries. The structure connecting a catamaran's two hulls ranges from a simple frame strung with webbing to support the crew to a bridging superstructure incorporating extensive cabin and/or cargo space.

Due to the high technology level and market requirements in the developed countries, the market is currently dominated by a handful of companies that own the core technologies, including Sunreef Yachts, Robertson & Caine and Pedigree Cats, with about 25% market shares.

Europe occupied 33% of the global market, U.S. took up 28%, Japan occupied about 15% of global market, Southeast Asia, China included, together occupied about 10% of the global market.
