Scope of the Report

This report focuses on the Chromatography Resin in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application.

The ion exchange segment accounted for the largest share in 2017, in terms of volume, and is projected to grow at a considerable rate during the forecast period. Ion exchange chromatography technique is widely used for biopharmaceutical purification processes. It is used in combination with other techniques, wherein the use of protein A resins is not a commercially preferred option. This has led to the high demand for ion exchange resins in the past decade.

The pharmaceutical & biotechnology segment accounted for the largest market share in 2017, owing to increasing use of monoclonal antibodies in key therapeutic areas, such as oncology, tuberculosis, and other autoimmune diseases. Increasing number of contract manufacturing organizations (CMOs) and contract research organizations (CROs) in the pharmaceutical industry are expected to create new opportunities for chromatography resin manufacturers.

The worldwide market for Chromatography Resin is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly 7.1% over the next five years, will reach 2600 million US$ in 2023, from 1730 million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
