Cigarette consumables are essential materials in cigarette production, including cigarette packs, tipping papers, rolling papers, and other related materials. Cigarette packs are the outer packaging papers that typically feature branding and anti-counterfeiting marks. Tipping papers (or filter papers) are used to wrap the cigarette filter, connecting the filter to the cigarette stick. Rolling papers directly wrap the tobacco, and their quality and permeability significantly influence the smoking experience. Other consumables may include packaging materials and adhesives, all contributing to the production, packaging, and overall user experience of cigarettes.
