Abstracts

Greenhouses are places for growing plants in a controlled environment. Europe has traditionally been at the forefront of implementing advanced techniques in the commercial greenhouse market. Countries such as The Netherlands, Spain, and France have large areas under greenhouse cultivation. The increasing population and demand for food in developing regions such as Asia-Pacific are boosting the growth of this market. The increasing trend of rooftop farming and the rising population are the two major drivers for the market. However, the high cost of commercial greenhouses, especially technologies such as LED grow light and HVAC systems, is a restraint for the commercial greenhouse market.

Scope of the Report

This report focuses on the Commercial Greenhouse in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. Temperature is one of the most important parameters for plant photosynthesis. Due to this, a commercial greenhouse needs to be equipped with technologies for maintaining the ideal temperature required for photosynthesis. Thus, heating and cooling systems together constituted nearly 51% of the overall commercial greenhouse market in 2014. However, they are far more superior to the conventional greenhouses or traditional farming in terms of providing the desired light spectrum at all stages of plant growth, are energy-efficient, and offer longer operating life. These features are encouraging growers to adopt LED grow lights.

The worldwide market for Commercial Greenhouse is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly 8.8% over the next five years, will reach 49100 million US$ in 2023, from 29600 million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
