According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Construction Glass Curtain Wall market size was valued at US$ 55100 million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ 67700 million by 2032 with a CAGR of 3.0% during review period.

Construction glass curtain wall usually refers to a building enclosure system composed of panels and supporting structure systems (supporting devices and supporting structures), which has a certain displacement capacity relative to the main structure or a certain deformation capacity itself, and does not bear the load and action of the main structure. It is mainly used in urban high-rise buildings, large-span buildings, special-shaped buildings, building skylights, public buildings or building complexes, such as high-end office buildings, hotels, stadiums, airports, stations, exhibition centers, shopping malls, enterprises, institutions or government office buildings. In addition to having general architectural functions, embodying architectural art, and having transparent, livable and beautiful functions, the more important thing is that it has energy-saving and safety functions. The curtain wall is the outer wall enclosure of the building. It is composed of various strong, light and beautiful structural frame materials and inlaid panels to make the building beautiful, multifunctional and safe. It is a lightweight wall with decorative effects commonly used in modern large and high-rise buildings, which can have a certain displacement capacity relative to the main body. The scope of the curtain wall mainly includes the exterior wall, skylight (cover) and awning of the building and the interior decorative wall.

The commercial sector, mainly composed of high - rise office buildings and TOD complexes, is the primary application area, accounting for 68% of the total demand in 2025. The public sector, including medical and educational projects, is also an important part, with a demand growth rate of 15% in 2025. The residential sector has a relatively small market share but is showing a trend of growth, driven by the increasing demand for high - end residential buildings.

With the deepening of the global concept of sustainable development, the construction industry is increasingly focusing on energy - saving and environmental protection. Glass curtain walls can allow natural light to penetrate while providing insulation, helping to reduce building energy consumption. Therefore, the demand for energy - efficient buildings is driving the growth of the glass curtain wall market. The glass industry has witnessed continuous technological progress, such as the development of low - e coatings and smart glass. These advancements have enhanced the performance of glass curtain walls in terms of energy conservation, light transmittance, and aesthetics, expanding their applications and promoting market growth. The global construction industry is on the rise, with a large number of new buildings, renovations, and expansions being carried out. This provides a broad market space for glass curtain walls. In Asia - Pacific, in particular, rapid urbanization and large - scale infrastructure investments have led to a significant increase in the demand for glass curtain walls.
