The global Curcuma Longa (Turmeric) Root Extract market size is expected to reach $ 99 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 3.9% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

In 2025, global curcuma longa (turmeric) root extract production reached approximately 333 tons, the average price is 220 usd/kg. Curcuma longa (turmeric) root extract is an active ingredient concentrate obtained from the dried rhizome of turmeric, a plant of the ginger family, by solvent extraction and other methods. Its main active ingredients are curcuminoids, including curcumin, demethoxycurcumin and bisdemethoxycurcumin. curcumin. The extract is widely used in the fields of food, health care products, cosmetics and pharmaceuticals, and has attracted much attention due to its significant antioxidant, anti-inflammatory and other biological activities, and is often standardized to a certain proportion of curcumin content to ensure product efficacy.

Market Concentration and Main Participants:

Internationally, turmeric root extract market concentration is relatively high, mainly concentrated in developed countries such as Europe, America and Japan. For example, Berkshire Hathaway and Flavex and other large manufacturers; from the domestic point of view, turmeric root extract still has a lot of room for development.

Manufacturing Processes and Market Trends:

The manufacturing process of turmeric root extract usually begins with washing, drying and crushing of turmeric rhizomes, followed by solvent extraction. Commonly, water or ethanol is used as a solvent, and it is carried out by heating reflux, ultrasound-assisted or Soxhlet extraction. filtering the extract, concentrating under reduced pressure, and spray drying to obtain a water-soluble powder finished product. More advanced processes such as supercritical CO₂ extraction are also used, which can shorten extraction times and better retain heat-sensitive active ingredients. In order to obtain high-purity products, subsequent purification steps such as crystallization and washing may also be included. The entire manufacturing process aims to obtain an extract with standardized curcumin content.

The market for this extract is showing steady growth. Market growth is primarily driven by growing global consumer demand for natural, plant-based ingredients in dietary supplements, functional foods, cosmetics and pharmaceuticals. North America is the largest consumer market, while Asia Pacific is an important producer and supplier of raw materials. In the future, the demand for organic certification and high-curcumin standardized products, as well as the expansion of new application areas such as personal care, are key trends in market development.
