Abstracts

Cystoscopy is performed with the use of cystoscope, which is a thin tube with camera and light in the end. The global cystoscopy market is driven by factors such as growing awareness about the usage of cystoscopy in urology, and growing investments in endoscopy by hospitals. Furthermore, rising geriatric population is expected to support the growth in this market as geriatric population is exposed to urine related diseases. On the contrary, lack of expertise to perform cystoscopy and threat of infection are some of the restraining factors, however these factors have less effect on the market over the forecast period.
