Abstracts

The global Denture Toothbrush market size is expected to reach $ 89.58 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 4.9% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

In 2025, global production of denture toothbrushes reached 73 million units, with an estimated average selling price of US$0.86 per unit. Denture toothbrushes are cleaning products used for cleaning complete dentures, partial removable dentures, removable dentures, overdentures, and some removable dental restorations. They typically employ a large brush head + small-angle brush head or a double-sided bristle structure: the large brush head is used to clean large areas such as the denture base and the surfaces where artificial teeth are arranged, while the small brush head or tapered brush head is used to clean clasps, edges, grooves, inner surfaces, and hard-to-reach areas; the bristles are generally harder, longer, and more durable than those of ordinary soft-bristled toothbrushes. The upstream mainly includes PP/PE/ABS handle materials, nylon/PBT brush filaments, bristle implantation metal sheets or anchor wires, injection molds, bristle implantation equipment, packaging cards, blister packaging, instruction manuals, and materials for dental cleaning agents; the midstream includes handle injection molding, dual-head structure design, bristle implantation, bristle trimming, rounding, anti-slip handle molding, packaging, and brand/OEM production; the downstream mainly serves pharmacies, dental clinics, dental restoration centers, nursing homes, and care facilities. The gross profit margin ranges from approximately 18% to 35%.

The global market is characterized by 'low-frequency replacement, professional channel-driven demand, and demand supported by an aging population.' Demand is primarily driven by the increasing elderly population, the expanding use of full and partial dentures, enhanced dental clinic guidance on denture cleaning, standardized oral care procedures in elderly care institutions, and the bundled sales of denture cleaning tablets, denture cases, and denture care kits. Future industry trends include: First, product upgrades towards dual-headed, multi-angle, non-slip, large-handle designs and age-friendly features; second, denture brushes will increasingly be sold in bundles with denture cleaning tablets, denture cases, instruction cards, and travel storage cases; third, nursing homes and long-term care facilities will drive denture cleaning from individual spontaneous purchases to institutional procurement; and fourth, environmentally friendly packaging, recyclable handles, and antibacterial/easy-to-clean materials will become differentiating factors for high-end products.
