Abstracts

The global Diethylamino Hydroxybenzoyl Hexyl Benzoate market size is expected to reach $ 164 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 5.1% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

Diethylaminohydroxybenzoylhexyl benzoate (DHHB) is a highly effective oil-soluble organic UVA sunscreen. It comprehensively covers and absorbs ultraviolet rays from 320-400nm (peak at 354nm), exhibits excellent photostability, and is used in sunscreens to prevent skin aging.

The upstream industry primarily relies on high-quality organic chemical raw materials. Key intermediates include m-aminophenol derivatives, phthalic anhydride, and specific long-chain alcohols. Due to the multi-step synthetic reaction involved in DHHB, extremely high requirements are placed on the impurity content of upstream raw materials (especially heavy metals and specific phthalic acid byproducts). The midstream industry focuses on the research, purification, and branding of refined sunscreen agents. The downstream industry focuses on mid-to-high-end skincare and sunscreen products globally.

Global sales are projected at approximately 5,000 tons in 2025, with an average selling price of US$22,500 per ton. The industry's gross profit margin is typically between 25% and 35%.

DHHB is widely recognized as a benchmark for next-generation sunscreens, gradually replacing traditional chemical sunscreen ingredients (such as benzophenone-3). This is mainly due to its excellent thermal stability and strong absorption peak around 354nm, which effectively protects against long-wave ultraviolet rays that cause photoaging and pigmentation, and it is not easily decomposed under sunlight. With the popularization of skin health education, consumers' awareness of UV damage is no longer limited to summer vacations but extends to daily commutes. At the same time, increasingly stringent requirements from regulatory agencies in various countries for SPF and PA ratings of sunscreen products have prompted formulators to seek more efficient and safer raw materials. Furthermore, the excellent synergistic effect of DHHB with other sunscreen agents allows brands to improve protective power without sacrificing skin feel. This pursuit of a 'lightweight, imperceptible' sunscreen experience has greatly stimulated market demand for DHHB.
