Dipping tobacco is a type of finely ground or shredded, moistened smokeless tobacco product. It is commonly and idiomatically known by various terms—most often as dip and sometimes as rub. It is used by placing a lump, pinch, or 'dip' of tobacco between the lip and the gum. The act of using it is called dipping. Typically, before dipping, the act of 'packing' is performed, where the user places the 'can' in between the thumb and middle finger, then flicks the index finger onto the lid of the can. Dip is colloquially called 'chew', 'snuff', 'chaw', or "fresh leaf" among other terms; because of this, it is sometimes confused with other tobacco products—namely nasal/dry snuff.
