Abstracts

Dispersing agents are chemicals that contain surfactants and solvent compounds that improve the separation of particles and prevent settling or clumping of particles during the dispersion of solids in liquids. These agents inhibit flocculation of pigment particles, increasing the chemical stability of formulations. This also ensures the stability of such formulations during storage.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Dispersing Agents in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. There is a direct correlation between automotive, construction paints and coatings, and oil and gas industries as the development of the infrastructure and automotive sector have resulted in the significant growth of the dispersing agents market in the paints and coatings industry. Moreover, dispersing agents are added to lubricating oils in automotive engines to prevent dust deposition on engine walls. Also, dispersants disperse into the water and help in clearing oil from the water surface. Furthermore, dispersing agents are used in improving the workability of fluids which will fuel the demand for dispersing agents from different end-user industries during the forecast period.

The global dispersing agents market is highly fragmented due to the wide applications of dispersing agents across various end-user industries. The market is moderately competitive with the presence of small and medium-sized manufacturers. APAC holds the maximum share of the dispersing agents market both in terms of revenue and volume. The rapid development of infrastructure in several developing countries in APAC like China, India, Indonesia, Malaysia, and Taiwan is fuelling the demand for dispersing agents. Moreover, the rise in demand from end-user industries such as detergents, paints and coatings, pulp and paper, and paints in the region will drive the growth of this market in APAC.

The worldwide market for Dispersing Agents is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
