Abstracts

The global Divorce Appraisal Service market size is expected to reach $ 3153 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 5.7% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

To address the inefficiencies and imbalances in rights protection caused by the time-consuming nature of traditional divorce assessments, the interference of emotional factors in decision-making, vague property division standards, frequent child custody disputes, and high rates of subsequent disputes, divorce assessment services have emerged. Since the early 21st century, with the improvement of the marriage and family legal system and the integration of interdisciplinary assessment technologies, this service has achieved a paradigm shift from 'experience-driven mediation' to 'professional and scientific assessment' through psychological behavioral analysis models, intelligent legal clause matching engines, automated financial auditing tools, and child development needs assessment systems. Today, divorce assessment services have developed into a professional service system encompassing online emotional assessment, legal risk assessment, property division simulation, customized child custody plans, mediation process recording, and early warning of subsequent disputes.

As a core support for marriage and family governance, divorce assessment services are undergoing a transformation from 'crisis intervention' to 'life transition support.' The market continues to grow, driven by factors including policy dividends, technological innovation, and diversified demand. The industry faces challenges such as regional imbalances, technological iteration, and talent shortages, but also opportunities such as policy support, market expansion, and technological empowerment. In the future, it needs to focus on four key areas: digitalization, specialization, internationalization, and sustainability. This involves improving efficiency and accuracy through technological innovation, meeting niche needs through specialized services, expanding the market through international cooperation, and responding to environmental trends through sustainable assessments, ultimately achieving high-quality development and supporting social harmony, stability, and the reconstruction of family functions.
