According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Door Magnetic Detector market size was valued at US$ million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ million by 2032 with a CAGR of %during review period.

Door sensor detector, also called door sensor or door sensor switch, is a safety device used to monitor the opening and closing status of doors, windows, etc. It usually consists of two main components: a magnet fixed to the door frame and a switch mounted on the door. When the door is closed, the magnet interacts with the switch, keeping the switch closed; when the door is open, the magnet moves away from the switch, causing the switch to open, triggering an alarm or sending a signal.
