Abstracts

The global eBook Sales Platform market size is expected to reach $ 30939 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 4.6% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

An eBook sales platform is an online digital publishing & trading service that connects authors/publishers with readers, supporting full-cycle functions including manuscript upload, format conversion, metadata setup, DRM protection, display, payment collection, digital delivery, sales statistics, and reader reading adaptation. It enables creators to sell electronic books (EPUB, PDF, MOBI, interactive enhanced e-books) to global readers online without physical printing, warehousing or logistics.

North America is still the largest market because of Amazon's strong position and mature digital publishing ecosystem. Asia-Pacific is the fastest-growing region, driven by Japan's manga/eBook market, China's digital reading platforms, India's mobile-first book consumption, and Southeast Asia's rising creator economy.

The market is shifting from simple eBook retailing toward multi-format digital publishing ecosystems. Platforms are increasingly combining eBooks, audiobooks, print-on-demand, subscriptions, AI translation, metadata optimization, promotion tools, direct sales, and reader analytics.

The main growth drivers are self-publishing, mobile reading, global digital book distribution, online education, subscription reading, and AI-assisted publishing.

The market is highly concentrated at the retail end but fragmented at the author-service and distribution end. Amazon is the strongest global eBook sales ecosystem, especially in English-language consumer fiction and self-publishing.
