The Production is about 100,000 units. Electric golf boards are compact, electric-powered personal mobility devices designed specifically for use on golf courses. They allow a single golfer to stand on the board while transporting themselves and their golf bag between holes. Compared with traditional golf carts, electric golf boards offer a smaller footprint, lower energy consumption, reduced turf impact, and enhanced maneuverability, providing a fast, fun, and environmentally friendly alternative for on-course mobility.

1. Sustainability and Course-friendly Mobility

Electric golf boards align strongly with golf courses' sustainability goals by reducing emissions, noise, and turf damage. As golf facilities seek eco-friendly transportation solutions, electric boards will gain wider acceptance as an alternative to multi-seat golf carts.

2. Lightweight Design and Performance Optimization

Future electric golf boards will emphasize lightweight materials, optimized chassis design, and improved motor efficiency. These advancements will enhance maneuverability, extend battery life, and improve stability across varied course terrain.

3. Smart Technology and Connectivity Integration

Electric golf boards are expected to integrate smart features such as GPS-based course mapping, geofenced speed control, fleet management systems, and mobile app connectivity. These technologies will support better rental management and improve user safety and experience.

4. Enhanced Safety and User-friendly Design

As adoption increases, manufacturers will focus on safety features including improved braking systems, traction control, stability assistance, and ergonomic standing platforms to accommodate a wider range of golfers, including beginners.

5. Experience-driven and Lifestyle Positioning

Electric golf boards will increasingly be marketed as experience-oriented and lifestyle products, adding an element of fun and personalization to the game. Custom designs, branding options, and premium finishes will appeal to younger golfers and help modernize the sport's image.
