Abstracts

The cloud deployment type is expected to grow at the highest CAGR during the forecast period. Cloud-based services are provided directly through the cloud-deployed network connectivity. They help in reducing the overall costs, while also providing highly flexible and scalable access to solutions. Companies are deploying solutions on-cloud to improve the centralization, mobility, collaboration of data, and reduction of data loss during the transit. Security remains to be a critical issue, which restricts its adoption; however, this issue is gradually being eradicated through rigorous security tests, conducted to the highest standards by third parties. Due to these advantages, most vendors are switching from on-premises deployment type to the Software as a Service (SaaS)-based software.
