Abstracts

The global Entertainment Logistics market size is expected to reach $ 2334 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 5.2% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

To address the high self-purchase costs of equipment in the entertainment industry, difficulties in coordinating temporary transportation, and chaotic material scheduling for large-scale events, entertainment logistics services emerged. Since the advent of entertainment logistics services in the early 21st century, the cultural and performing arts support sector has experienced significant development. Currently, entertainment logistics has evolved into a comprehensive service solution encompassing various types of transportation, including touring concert equipment, film and television props, and music festival stage equipment delivery. It is widely used in live performances, film and television production, and large-scale cultural events, significantly improving the efficiency of performance support and equipment management.

As the 'new infrastructure' of the entertainment industry, entertainment logistics is reshaping the efficiency and experience of the entertainment event supply chain through technological empowerment, green transformation, and in-depth scenario development. With the growth of global entertainment demand and advancements in logistics technology, China is expected to shift from 'scale leadership' to 'technology leadership,' achieving breakthroughs in high-end scenarios such as intelligent warehousing, green transportation, and customized services. Ultimately, it aims to build a sustainable development ecosystem driven by demand and protected by environmental protection, supporting the high-quality development of the global entertainment industry.
