EPDM (Ethylene Propylene Diene Monomer) playground rubber flooring is a type of synthetic rubber surface material specifically designed for playgrounds. It is composed of EPDM rubber granules, which are small, colored particles made from a blend of ethylene, propylene, and a diene monomer that gives the rubber its unique properties. These granules are typically bound together using a polyurethane or other suitable adhesive to form a resilient, shock-absorbing surface. EPDM playground rubber flooring is known for its durability, resistance to weathering, UV rays, and abrasion, making it suitable for outdoor use. It comes in a wide variety of colors, allowing for the creation of vibrant and visually appealing playground designs, and can also be molded into different shapes and patterns. The surface provides a soft and safe landing area for children, reducing the risk of injuries from falls. Additionally, EPDM rubber flooring is relatively easy to install, maintain, and clean, making it a popular choice for playgrounds in schools, parks, daycare centers, and other recreational facilities.
