According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Fish Sauce market size was valued at US$ 3161 million in 2024 and is forecast to a readjusted size of USD 4285 million by 2031 with a CAGR of 4.5% during review period.

Fish sauce is an amber-coloured liquid extracted from the fermentation of fish with sea salt. It is used as a condiment in various cuisines. Fish sauce is a staple ingredient in numerous cultures in Southeast Asia and the coastal regions of East Asia, and features heavily in Cambodian, Filipino, Thai, Laotian and Vietnamese cuisines. It also was a major ingredient in ancient European cuisine, but is no longer commonly used in those regions.

The growing global demand for Asian cuisine, particularly in Western countries, is a major driver of the fish sauce market. As consumers increasingly seek authentic flavors and ingredients, fish sauce has become a staple in both home cooking and restaurant menus. Additionally, the rise of health-conscious consumers looking for natural, preservative-free condiments has contributed to the demand for traditional fish sauce, which is often marketed as a healthier alternative to synthetic seasonings and flavor enhancers. One of the key challenges in the fish sauce market is the growing concern over the sustainability of fish resources used in production. Overfishing and environmental degradation are affecting the availability of key fish species, driving up costs for manufacturers. Additionally, there is increasing competition from alternative plant-based seasonings, which cater to the rising number of vegetarian and vegan consumers, potentially limiting the growth of traditional fish sauce sales in certain markets.

Market competition is intens. Masan Consumer, Tang Sang Ha and Thaipreeda Group are the leaders of Fish Sauce industry, with about 49% market shares. Thailand is the largest supplier and consumer of Fish Sauce, with a production market share of 44% and a consumption market share of 26%. The second place is Vietnam, following Thailand with the production market share of 37%, and the sales market share nearly 22%. China is another important market of Fish Sauce, enjoying 6% Sales market share.
