Abstracts

Floating production systems are offshore production facilities that are used for the production of hydrocarbons. The process involved separates oil, water, gas, sand, and so on, and distributes the yields to storage, disposal, or transportation facilities. FPS are an essential component required for offshore oil and gas developments. FPS are used for drilling and exploration activities in offshore oil and gas production at various water depths.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Floating Production System in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. The FPSO market segment accounted for about 62% of the total market share and dominated the market. FPSOs are mainly used by companies to extract crude oil through offshore drilling activities, It has a field storage capability and can be used in locations where there is no accessibility to pipeline infrastructure. Eliminating the requirement for pipeline infrastructure, FPSOs reduce operational costs for transporting crude oil.

According to this market study, the Americas will account for about 59% of the total market share and will also dominate the floating production system market throughout the predicted period. This region hosts plenty of oil and gas reserves and is a major contributor to the FPSO market. New discoveries in the Latin American countries, such as Brazil, Mexico and Venezuela, shale gas discoveries in the US, and ultra-deep water discoveries in Latin America will drive the demand for floating production systems in this region.

The worldwide market for Floating Production System is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
