Abstracts

Fluorochemicals are chemical compounds that contain fluorine. Fluorine is a highly reactive element and is derived from sources like fluorite (also known as fluorspar), fluorapatite, and cryolite. Fluorine has a number of desirable chemical properties like high electronegativity, and reactivity and tendency to form stable compounds.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Fluorochemicals in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. Fluorocarbons was the largest segment of the global fluorochemicals market. These are compounds that are formed when fluorine is covalently bonded to carbon atoms in varying number and different configurations. The strength and stability of these covalent bonds give fluorocarbons their unique properties to function like refrigerants, lubricants, solvents, propellants, and stain-repellent products. The segment is expected to grow at a fast rate over the forecast period owing to the increase in its high demand for use across applications like blowing agents, packaging, solvents, refrigerants, and aerosol propellants.

The refrigeration segment dominated the global fluorochemicals market. Much of the segment's growth comes from the rise in global temperature and improvements in the living standards of the population in the developing countries of the APAC and ROW regions.

The worldwide market for Fluorochemicals is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
