Abstracts

A homogenizer is an equipment used for the homogenization of various types of material to produce suspensions, emulsions, and other products. Homogenization is the process of reducing particle sizes of products, such as fruit juices, jam, ice-cream, food additives, wine, and others under extreme pressure, turbulence, and shear stress for improving the stability and texture of the products. The liquid products are passed through a homogenizing valve at very high pressure.

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Food and Beverage Homogenizers in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application.

The two-stage homogenizers segment accounted for the major shares of the food and beverage homogenizers market. Factors such as the increasing use of two-stage homogenizers for processing products with high fat content and increased assistance to retain the color of these products for an increased time will contribute to the growth of this industry segment in the coming years.

The pressure homogenizers are increasingly used in the food and beverages industry to remove the microbes that are present in products. High-pressure homogenizers are also used for preparation of double emulsions, processing milk, cream, ice creams, and spreads. Also, these high-pressure homogenizers are very effectual for small and soft particles such as fat globules in milk. This will lead to the growth of the high-pressure homogenizers market during the forecast period.

The worldwide market for Food and Beverage Homogenizers is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
