The global Foundry Sand Cleaning Machine market size is expected to reach $ 1195 million by 2032, rising at a market growth of 6.1% CAGR during the forecast period (2026-2032).

A foundry sand cleaning machine is industrial equipment used to remove residual molding sand from castings after solidification, improving surface quality and preparing parts for downstream finishing processes. These machines typically employ vibration, rotation, air blasting, mechanical brushing, or combined cleaning methods to separate sand from metal castings efficiently. In 2025, the average selling price of foundry sand cleaning machines is approximately US$42,000 per unit, with global sales volume estimated at around 18.2 thousand units. The market is characterized by equipment-based capital expenditure, strong linkage with foundry production capacity, and increasing demand driven by automation and environmental compliance requirements. Industry analysis indicates that foundry sand cleaning machines are transitioning from standalone cleaning equipment toward integrated systems within automated foundry lines. Competitive differentiation increasingly depends on cleaning efficiency, adaptability to complex castings, dust control performance, and compatibility with downstream finishing equipment.

This report studies the global Foundry Sand Cleaning Machine production, demand, key manufacturers, and key regions.
