According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global Geosynthetic Bentonite Liner market size was valued at USD million in 2022 and is forecast to a readjusted size of USD million by 2029 with a CAGR of % during review period. The influence of COVID-19 and the Russia-Ukraine War were considered while estimating market sizes.

Geosynthetic Bentonite Liner (GBL) is a type of geosynthetic material that is commonly used in the construction of landfills, ponds, and other containment systems. It is made up of a layer of bentonite clay sandwiched between two layers of geotextile fabric. The bentonite clay in the GBL swells when it comes into contact with water, creating a barrier that prevents water from passing through.

GBLs are used in a variety of applications where water containment is necessary. They are often used in landfill construction to prevent leachate from contaminating the surrounding soil and groundwater. They are also used in the construction of ponds and other water containment structures.
