Abstracts

A geyser is a spring characterized by intermittent discharge of water ejected turbulently and accompanied by steam. As a fairly rare phenomenon, the formation of geysers is due to particular hydrogeological conditions that exist only in a few places on Earth. Generally, all geyser field sites are located near active volcanic areas, and the geyser effect is due to the proximity of magma. Generally, surface water works its way down to an average depth of around 2,000 metres where it contacts hot rocks. The resultant boiling of the pressurized water results in the geyser effect of hot water and steam spraying out of the geyser's surface vent (a hydrothermal explosion).

Scope of the Report:

This report focuses on the Geysers in global market, especially in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, South America, Middle East and Africa. This report categorizes the market based on manufacturers, regions, type and application. With the increasing demand for tankless geysers, the geysers market is anticipated to have a positive outlook in the coming years. Based on energy consumption, tankless geysers are categorized into electric tankless geysers and gas tankless geysers. Tankless geysers are heavy burners and quickly heats water flowing through a heat exchanger. As a result, these devices were found to be 22% more energy efficient in laboratory tests than gas-powered storage-tank models. A typical electric-resistance tankless geyser with an energy factor of 0.99 consumes approximately 4,435 kilowatt-hours per year which translates into nearly 9% energy savings in comparison to a 50-gallon electric-resistance storage geyser with an energy factor of 0.90. Moreover, the tankless geyser market is gaining traction in North America as technical advancements over the last few years have boosted the capacity of such geysers up to 3.5 gallons per minute.

EMEA led The global geysers market and is expected to reach over USD 26 billion by 2020. Storage geysers have the largest market in European nations as the residential geysers market in Europe has attained maturity.

The worldwide market for Geysers is expected to grow at a CAGR of roughly xx% over the next five years, will reach xx million US$ in 2023, from xx million US$ in 2017, according to a new GIR (Global Info Research) study.
