Abstracts

The hospital's cash benefit insurance provides a certain fixed amount to the insured during their hospital stay, which the person is free to use as per his/her need. Hence, an increase in out-of-the-pocket health care expenditure aids in the growth of the hospital's daily cash benefit insurance market. The inability to cover the complete medical treatment expenses is anticipated to hinder the hospital's cash benefit insurance market's growth. On average, the hospital's daily cash benefit insurance provides the insured with an amount ranging from $100 to $3000 per day which is not sufficient for the complete coverage of the treatment making it a supplement to the health insurance plans.
