Abstracts

According to our (Global Info Research) latest study, the global HR Analytics Consulting Service market size was valued at US$ 13656 million in 2025 and is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ 21139 million by 2032 with a CAGR of 6.3% during review period.

Human resources (HR) analytics consulting firms provide businesses with analytical expertise to optimize key business processes. With an in-depth understanding of HR analytics, consultants are able to provide insight and solutions that may not be apparent to those within the organization.

The development of human resource analytics consulting services is driven by multiple factors, including the growing demand from enterprises for scientific decision-making and refined talent management, the increasing accumulation of human resource data, the continuous maturation of data analytics and artificial intelligence technologies, the intensified competition for talent driving predictive management, and organizations' urgent pursuit of improving the return on investment in human capital. With the widespread adoption of HR systems and the deepening of digital transformation, enterprises are no longer satisfied with post-event statistics but hope to use data insights to proactively identify risks, optimize recruitment and retention strategies, verify the effectiveness of HR initiatives, and closely link talent issues with business results. This drives the transformation of human resource departments from functional support roles to strategic value creators, accelerating the application and deepening of professional analytics consulting services across various industries.
