In terms of product, ultrasonic humidifier is the largest segment, with a share about 69%. And in terms of sales channels, the largest sales channels is specialty stores and supermarkets with a share about 69%.

A humidifier is a household appliance that increases humidity in a room. Common types of humidifiers generally include evaporative humidifiers and ultrasonic humidifiers. The evaporative humidifier is the most common humidifier, which generally consists of a water tank, an evaporating core, and a fan. The evaporating core absorbs water from the water tank, and the fan is connected to the evaporating core, blowing air to the wind-generating core to increase the evaporation rate. Ultrasonic humidifiers use ultrasonic converters to generate small water droplets to form cold water mist. As a small household appliance, humidifiers are generally sold in offline specialty stores, supermarkets or hypermarkets.
